Work ethic:

The day doesn't necessarily end at five o'clock.

I don't waste time. Instead, I strive to find the fastest, most efficient and creative way to get the job done.

I know how to do the work I assign.

I believe the best way to manage creative people is to gently guide their sensitive egos. I try to make them feel as though they're NOT being managed in the first place. To accomplish this, I allow freedom in the creative process, but I'm not afraid to intervene when necessary.
